Erell Discusses An Arab Republic

by S. M. Margles

"There is no reason to regard the Egyptian-Syrian merger in a negative light," according to Moshe Erell, First Secretary of the Israel Embassy in Ottawa, speaking in the Union Ballroom yesterday.

Answering questions at a discussion group sponsored by the United Nations Club at McGill, Mr. Erell went on to say that it all depends on the objects of this merger as to what the attitude of the Israeli people would be.

"If the object of the merger is to further the peaceful welfare of both countries, we are all for it," he said. "At the moment, there can be no opinion formed of the United Arab Republic without knowing more about it."

Life and Death

When questioned on the Israeli attack in the Sinai peninsula, Mr. Erell told the audience that the decision made by the Israeli government was not an easy one to make, but "it was a matter of life and death" and it was the duty of the Israeli government to do the proper thing.

"We are not pleased when the blood of either Arab or Israeli has to be shed," he said, "but there was no other course of action to be taken."

In reply to questions concerning the Arab refugees, Mr. Erell enunciated on the terms of the U.N. resolution concerning the Arabs and he went on to point out that 355,000 Arabs have already been repatriated in strict accordance with the terms of the 1948 resolution.

The Suez situation was brought into light in the question and answer period when a student asked whether the Israeli government would let the Suez situation remain the same or would there be a movement to gain use of the canal.

Mr. Erell replied that the only thing that stood in the way of Israeli use of the canal was the place from which enforcement of the U.N. resolutions would come. "Two resolutions have already been passed in the Security Council clearly stating that Israel has the right to use the canal, but there has not been any enforcement of them," he said.

When queried as to whether the matter would be taken to the World Court at The Hague, Mr. Erell replied that as the Court has no powers of its own, all that could happen is a return to the Security Council for a further motion.

Emergency Force

"The United Nations Emergency Force has proved to be a successful deterrent," replied Mr. Erell concerning the UNEF. "During the past months that the force has been in Gaza, there has been no trouble," he said, but there is no indication of how long the force will remain in its present position in the Gaza area.

Israel is not the only cause of anti-west feeling in some Arab communities, according to Mr. Erell, but there are many factors which have to be taken into account. He quoted President Nasser of Egypt as saying that the cause ranged back to the time of the Crusades.

Mr. Erell was welcomed and thanked by Zafar Khan, President of the United Nations Club.

NFCUS Splits On Scholarship Plan

KINGSTON (CUP) — Queen's University and the National Federation of University Students executive parted company last week over the issue of NFCUS' national scholarships campaign.

The NFCUS committee of Queen's charged that the national executive policy was "out of line" with the resolution of the NFCUS annual congress in Quebec City. The resolution asked for adequate scholarships for every student entering a university.

The scholarships campaign is scheduled to go into full swing this week or next with briefs submitted to provincial premiers and to Prime Minister Diefenbaker. The Queen's NFCUS committee has been soliciting support from students and local service clubs.

Local committee members charged that the national executive had backed down on the idea of the resolution and asked only for 10,000 scholarships of $550 each. NFCUS Committee chairman Bryan Blair stated in a letter to the NFCUS national office that the Quebec resolution meant "that every person accepted for entry to university should be aided financially regardless of need". The national executive backed away from this resolution after bringing up the question of principle.

The Queen's committee also condemned the national executive

Mexico Subject Of Ponce Address

Guillermo Ponce, Director of the Mexican Tourist Bureau in Montreal, will address the Spanish Club, today in the Union Club Room.

GUILLERMO PONCE

Mr. Ponce received his university education in Rome, graduating in Philosophy and Classical Languages. He entered the diplomatic field in 1953, and spent three years as Cultural Attaché in the Mexican Consulate in New York. In 1956 he became assistant director of the Mexican Tourist Bureau in Los Angeles, and was transferred here last September.

Land of Contrasts

Mr. Ponce's aim is to increase cultural relations and exchange between Mexico and Canada, using travel between the two to achieve this end. He is also to inaugurate in the near future an art gallery sponsored by the Mexican Government to make known the works of Mexican artists. Mr. Ponce will speak on "Mexico, Land of Contrasts."

Competitors For Reford Cup "Take Five" In Talks

Preliminaries for the Reford Cup, for impromptu speaking, continue today from 1-3 pm in the Club Room. Contestants will have five minutes to prepare a five minute speech on a topic drawn from a hat.

Wilfred Hastings, Secretary-Treasurer of the Students' Society, will judge the preliminaries. All students are eligible to participate in the competition, and the best four will speak in the finals on Thursday, to be judged by Dr. C.D. Solin, Assistant Dean of the Faculty of Arts and Science.

A large turnout is expected for the contest, as it demands a minimum of time for preparation. The winner of the Reford Cup last year was Phil Shaposnick, a Law student who was then Treasurer of the Debating Union.

for failing to inform the local committee chairman of the 10,000 scholarships plan. The explanation for adoption of the plan was that the national office of NFCUS had approached the St. Laurent cabinet with it two years ago.

Queen's students' council, the Alma Mater Society accepted the withdrawal last Thursday but refused to go along with it after forty minutes of debate. Their acceptance makes it official.

SHIFTING, WHISPERING SNOWS CAUSE CAMPUS CONSTERNATION

by M. J. Barza and M. A. Levitt

S'no use! The weatherman's scourge is upon us. For days, now, the parted heavens have poured forth their wrath upon us, until we slush, slide, slip, and slither in the swirling, murky waters which seep into the potholes on campus.

But have you ever wondered who saves us from complete oblivion? Did it ever occur to you that if this snow were allowed to stagnate on campus, it would probably soon engulf us, making McGill a second Atlantis? It is only through constant efforts that the campus is kept relatively unencumbered by snow.

The "shifting, whispering snows" are only controlled through diligent forces consisting of one bull-headed tractor and one valiant little jeep, which has been known to mysteriously disappear for hours at a stretch in the Great Drifts that engulf the campus.

But it is an ill wind that blows no good. And along with the seasonal havoc produced by snowstorms there emerges a lighter side to the dismal picture. Some common scenes around campus these days are:

a) Students struggling blindly through the drifts in vain efforts to reach the warmth of a dull lecture. Students have been known on occasion to miss buildings by several blocks.

b) Cherished professors cavorting wildly on icy patches in a manner not befitting the dignity of their profession.

c) The whirr of spinning tires and the smell of burning rubber as people who have not had the benefit of Physics II (see "Friction") blandly exceed limiting friction.

But the joy of a storm is rendered supreme by the sight of the Arts Building enshrouded in a mantle of silvery white.

Some innovations being contemplated on campus to combat the worsening situation are:

a) A rope extending from Pine to MacGregor along McTavish for those who wish to enjoy comparative safety.

b) A ski jump off the Arts Building for those who find the tunnel too hot and like to live dangerously.

c) Casualty lists posted at conspicuous places with the names of those who failed to weather the storms.

d) An automatic excuse computer for the dull of wit who arrive late for lectures.

e) A husky team furnished by the Biology Building for suburban students.

In a more serious vein, both students and staff alike are requested not to park on campus overnight as it is at this time that the snow removal is effected.

The Facts Of Life

Perhaps we are fortunate to live in such an incredible city and province. Any lover of the bizarre and the unbelievable must be happy in Montreal and Quebec Province, for who else could relish as richly the kinds of things that occur around here. Fact : the so-called Police Chief of a very large city calls a meeting of night-club owners to inform them that, for the first time in many years, the laws governing public sexual licence will be enforced. There are no convictions for the many years of abuse of the law, and owners are heard to complain about the injustice of the new order. Fact : the Mayor of a large city authorizes, with his council, the donation of a sizeable grant to only one of two large universities in a supposedly bi-cultural city, and refuses to explain his action to students of the university which did not receive money.

Fact : the gentlemen concerned with upholding the laws governing the sale and distribution of liquor in the Province decide that after at least a decade, behold; the liquor laws will be enforced. Fact : a delegation of night-club owners, musicians, taxi drivers, dancers, barkeepers etc. convenes before the authority concerned to protest this unheard of enforcement of the law, and to lobby for a change in the law to coincide more exactly with their interests. Fact : it is revealed that since the beginning of his reign in this unfortunate province our esteemed Premier Duplessis has not let Public Works contracts on tender, but has preferred to award them to "people I'm sure of." Fact : Premier Duplessis spends huge amounts of money in his election campaigns. Fact : a recent Dominion Bureau of Statistics survey indicates that Quebec is perhaps the poorest province in the country in terms of the amenities of life. Fact : McGill is in a process of being throttled by the Premier's policies but its Board of Governors seems incapable of taking strong action in the situation, perhaps preferring to attend upon transfusions from the tobacco, beer, liquor, and sugar beet industries. Fact : many of its best professors are leaving and the status quo won't stop them.

The Most Important Fact : no one seems to care enough to do something concerted and effective.

The State Of Araby

It is eight hundred years since Saladin the Great was a power that shook the European world and eight hundred years since there was a great united Arab nation. Last week saw the reuniting of two arab states in the first attempt in centuries to give form to Pan-Arabism.

The new "United Arab State" may not seem to be of much significance to the West; but this would be to repeat the blasé approach that has regrettably marked much of the attitude in matters with minor, underdeveloped countries with sad results in the past. Gamal Nasser, who has long cherished the idea of an Arab union from the "Atlantic to the Persian Gulf", is an able and resourceful man with much appeal to the masses of the Mid-East. His capabilities have been clearly seen in the dramatic Suez affair. The Western powers claimed that Egypt would not be able to run the canal efficiently; even with the odds against her Egypt came through successfully and have been running the canal smoothly without incident. This can be taken as an index of the ability and purposefulness of Nasser. But for the unfortunate series of incidents which led to Suez, and Dulles is as much to blame in this respect as Nasser, the Egyptian leader has played his game of positive neutralism with facility.

The union with Syria, a state that has the largest communist element in the Mid-East, can bode either good or ill for the West. A good deal of the responsibility for the future of the new state lies in the attitude taken on this side of the Atlantic. Nasser is proud and nationalistic — these are qualities not without honour in our society and typical of our leaders at other times in history. A realistic approach to the legitimate ambitions of the Arab peoples, a desire to support them for reasons of goodwill rather than only for strategic purposes, an understanding of their genuine desire for peace and neutralism so that they can proceed with economic development, is urgently needed now. To people in underdeveloped countries the main problem they see is never communism — they only remember the old imperialism and their present hunger.

Letters To The Editor

A Justified Protest

Sir :

We wish to thank the McGill Daily for the fine cooperation they have given us in publicising our Red and White Revue, Wry and Ginger.

Our theme this year is based on a cross-Canada search for moon-bound rocket crewmen.

Thus the launching of 'Explorer', the American earth satellite affected only one line of our script. Our script-writers are ever busy polishing final details of the show before it opens Thursday, and we have changed this one line.

Late news indicates that 'Explorer' has settled into orbit, and will not reach the moon, thus its launching has no major effect on our script, contrary to your headline in Monday's issue.

We cordially invite you to see the results of our efforts in Moyse Hall February 6-12.

Too Liberal For Words

Sir :

To my mind, a college newspaper or any newspaper at all should conform to the truth and the facts. A discoloration of either greatly deforms this purpose. On Jan. 31, 1958, in one of your editorials, you mentioned the "fact" that 12½% of our labour force are unemployed. The only conclusion that can be drawn from this assertion is that the managers of the Daily are not thinking or seeking the truth for themselves, but rather, have Liberal affiliations, for only the most liberal of Liberal figures give 750,000 of 12½% unemployed, and I am sure that if they were in office the figure would drop sharply. The N.E.S. (National Employment Service) figures for Jan. 1, 1958, show 780,000 unemployed or employed seeking other or new employment. Let us not forget that a good part of these 780,000 are employed at the present time. The D.B.S. figures show 386,000 unemployed. Now, in the late fall of 1955 the Liberal Government, when confronted by the opposition with the higher N.E.S. figures, said that the only reliable statistics were the ones issued by the D.B.S. and these figures were, and still are, about 50% lower.

One of the very reasons we are in the University is to seek knowledge and truth, so why not print it. Don't take out your dissatisfactions with our system by the defacing and the misconstruing of the truth. Furthermore, the undersigned might very well be looking for permanent employment at the end of this semester, and the Daily editorial has only served to depress and disillusion those very people who would be supplying us with our bread and butter (presuming that they read the Daily).

Ralph Horovitch, B. Com. IV
Brahm Campbell, B.A. IV

Ed's Note : We regret the error though our motives were hardly those implied by the writer. Our figures were taken from the magazine "U.S. News and World Report"; we now find that in a later issue they corrected the figure to 386,000. We quote an excerpt from their pages which indicates that even at this lower figure the unemployment problem is acute : "Canadian unemployment was overstated on this page in the January 24 issue, because of incorrect figures provided by Canadian Government officials."

Canadians seeking jobs in mid-December numbered 386,000, not 700,000. The 700,000 figure refers to those receiving unemployment insurance. Some of these people are out of work for seasonal reasons and do not register as unemployed and seeking work. No matter which measure is used, unemployment in Canada is rising rapidly and is far above year-earlier levels."

THIRD IN A SERIES BY IBMer BILL READE

The application of electronic principles to practical business problems is the vast field of the Applied Science Division of IBM. It's in this field that the graduate in Pure Mathematics or one of the Physical Sciences finds particular satisfaction. Here he is able to apply directly both the theory and practice of his education to work-a-day problems. He first is given the opportunity to further his knowledge through the study of Electronic Digital and Analog Computers. This training completed he becomes an IBM Applied Science Representative and is ready for an interesting assignment.

A typical assignment might be the solution to a computing problem put to IBM by one of Canada's giants of the petroleum industry. In this situation the Applied Scientist would consult with the top Chemical Engineers, analyse the problem, translate it into the language of an Electronic Computer and help interpret the results.

An IBM Applied Science Representative is a highly paid specialist who must have outstanding theoretical knowledge and practical ability, he needs the enquiring mind of an inventor and the logical thinking of a philosopher. The requirements for these positions are high but the rewards, both personal and financial, are higher.

Graduating students and undergraduates will find our booklet "Look Ahead" of interest in planning a career.

"Godiva" Brigade Protects Co-Eds

The responsibility of our fire chief and his volunteer workers has been lengthened considerably by the arrival of another volunteer fire group on the campus. These public-minded citizens, a few months ago, became worried about the disastrous result of a fire in any of the Women's Residences, and the subsequent loss of valuable peeping. For them, to think is to do.

They wish to announce the acquisition of a new (to them) fire truck, complete with the latest in Bickle-Seagrave fire-fighting machinery. The boys already feel at home for the truck is equipped with twin brass rails.

30 YEARS SERVICE

The truck is a Reno, gross tonnage 400 pounds, three speeds ahead, one reverse, will hold 1000 feet of hose or 20 fire-fighters completely attired in rubber boots and tin hats. The engine is rated at 35 brake-horsepower at 4000 r. p.m., top speed, 50 miles per hour in third gear. The truck has been in the service of the Napanee Fire Dept., where it served dutiful for the past 30 years. On the purchase of a new pumper, the Napanee fire and Light Commission were sadly forced, to sell this, their choicest relic of the days when men were men and women were glad of it.

The fire-fighting organization is to be called "The Lady Godiva Fire Brigade". This name brings up thoughts of Peeping Tom, and the Lady herself, clad only in her long flowing locks, riding through the streets of Coventry on a white horse. What this title has to do with the duties of a fire-fighting crew is problematical, and perhaps prophetic.

But, if there are any beautiful damsels who wish to be rescued by a muscular, ardent crew of loving fire-men, that can be arranged. Fires by appointment only. If you are not satisfied with the quality of your rescue redress may be had by applying to The Ontario Fire Marshall's Department, Rescue Division, 20 Colborne Street, Tnahna 4, Ontario

No mail orders please! Vehicle and property damage, but riders ride fully insured against public liability at their own risk.

Too Many Parties Too Little Study

SACKVILLE, N.B. (C.U.P.) — Less than eight students in Commerce passed all their Christmas examinations at Mount Allison University.

Several reasons for the failures include lack of correlation between high school and university, the poor start because of last fall's influenza epidemic and the possibility of too many social activities on the campus.

Although illness during the examinations, the possibility of a higher standard set by some professors and lack of study are also suggested as causes for lower grades.

As in other years, the number of failures among male students is three times greater than among the girls. Some professors have expressed the opinion that this was due to the conscientiousness of the co-eds and the allowance of more freedom to the men of Mount Allison.

FLUNK MATH

The first year subjects which suffered the most were Commerce and Mathematics. Foreign languages were the downfall of many students in both freshman and senior years.

In summing up the disgusting results, Dr. W. S. H. Crawford, the Dean of Science declared: "In general, students fail for one of two reasons; they haven't the ability to do work or, secondly, they haven't the will to work."

Contrary to rumours on the campus, there is no proof that the final examinations will be easier. University statistics show that some students who have passed all credits at Christmas have failed two or more of them in April mainly because of over-confidence.

KIDNAP OF CARNIVAL QUEENS HOLDS UP CEREMONY OPENING

Fourteen beautiful applicants for Winter Carnival Queen disappeared today from the Varsity campus to hold up the opening of the Winter Carnival 20 minutes.

Kidnapped by three unidentified male undergraduates, the girls were treated to a 20 minute drive around the city before being delivered to the front steps of Hart House where Warden McCulley and Assistant President Murray Ross waited.

It was probably the most unobtrusive kidnapping in the university's history.

VICTIMS UNAFRAID

And the 14 kidnap victims were perhaps the most helpful and least disturbed of all victims.

The abduction began at 12:30 when the Carnival Queens boarded John Phillip's Skule fire engine in front of Simcoe Hall to make a tour of the campus before arriving at the Hart House for the opening ceremonies.

As the fire engine, crowded with the girls and covered with signs roared away, the three artsmen boarded the engine.

With siren blaring and bell ringing the fire engine began circling the front campus, passed twice before Hart House and then went up to Bloor St. and circled the block to pass before the Victoria College Union.

Still unaware the three male passengers were potential kidnappers, the fire engine began its final run down St. George St., where fraternity men crowded windows to cheer the passing queens.

Making its final run, the fire engine turned up King's College Rd., and began its circle in front of Hart House to come before Hart House and the awaiting officials.

Then the kidnap occurred. Instead of turning towards Hart House, the driver, forced by the kidnappers, drove the fire engine beneath the underpass and onto University Ave.

Told they were going to the Royal Conservatory of Music, the girls remained calm. When the fire engine proceeded past the Sick Children's Hospital and east along Richmond St., the girls were not excited.

A run up Yonge St., and over to Wellesly St., brought the girls back to the Hart House at 12.22, just 22 minutes late for their scheduled appearance.

The kidnapping trio left the fire engine as it entered the campus. As they jumped off, they told the girls they had been kidnapped.

The girls smiled. One of them said, "Oh."

Some Thinkle Peep He's Really Drunk

I had eighteen bottles of whiskey in my cellar and was told by my wife to empty the contents of each and every bottle down the sink, or else... I said I would, and proceeded with the unpleasant task. I withdrew the cork from the first bottle and poured the contents down the sink with the exception of one glass which I drank.

I extracted the cork from the second bottle and did likewise with the exception of one glass, which I drank. I then withdrew the cork from the third bottle and poured the whiskey down the sink which I drank. I pulled the cork from the fourth bottle down the sink and poured the bottle down the glass, which I drank. I cork off the next and drank pulled the bottle from the one sink out of it, and threw the rest down the glass. I pulled the sink out of the next glass and poured the cork down the bottle. Then I corked the sink with the glass, bottled the drink and drank the pour.

When I had everything emptied, I steadied the house with one hand, counted the glasses, corks, bottles and sinks with the other which were 29, and as the house came by I counted

Infractions Prove Costly To Intramural Participants

by Danny Gold

As a result of a meeting of the Students' Intramural Recreational Council, held last Friday, several teams have caused their faculty to forfeit points and victories due to using ineligible players. The faculties concerned will thus lose ground in the keenly contested Inter-Faculty competition.

The question of the ineligibility of people participating in the Intramural programme has been a major headache to the directors of this programme for some time. The incidents and violators concerned were: Commerce and Engineering.

The Commerce violations are as follows:

A student in Arts played two games on one of the Commerce Basketball (Trotters) teams. Due to the fact that the team did not win those games, the team could not forfeit them, but the S.I.R.C. deemed it necessary to penalize the team by charging 30 points against the faculty's total points. (See Article No. 1 below). Seeing that the chief purpose of the Intramural programme is to get the maximum participation of students in sports, it is inexcusable that a team should have to call upon anybody "standing around" just to make up the minimum number of people necessary to start the game.

ADDITIONAL COMMERCE VIOLATIONS

In Ice Hockey, Commerce once more used an ineligible player in two of its games. In this case, the player was playing for an "outside" team as well as the faculty team (see article no. 5). In this case the player, as well as his team mates and the team manager were ignorant of his position. However, even though the people concerned acted in good faith, ignorance of the rules cannot relieve the team of a penalty. Thus, the Commerce team, who were undefeated with a 7-0 record, ended the season with a record of five wins and two losses which they were forced to forfeit to Law and Medicine where, in those encounters they made use of the services of the ineligible player who was working out with a Metropolitan team. After having received a written application, the SIRC granted this player permission to play in the Intramural League.

ENGINEERING INFRACTIONS

In the first round of the Basketball playoffs, an Engineering Team (The Vikings) used four ineligible players on their team. This indeed was a serious offense. One of the players came from another engineering team that had not succeeded in making the playoffs. Another, had not played one league game with that team, while the other two players are not registered at the University. As a result, the Faculty of Engineering suffered a loss of 100 points. (See Articles 1 and 5).

One of the main reasons for ineligibility of players on Intramural squads is ignorance or lack of attention paid to the rules and regulations laid down by the Intramural department and published in the McGill

Handbook, which is issued to all students at registration in the fall. It is essential that all participants in the Intramural Sports Programme offered by the University be aware of these rules. It may seem difficult for some people to go through the Handbook and pick out a few rules on one page of this two hundred page book. Therefore, for the benefit of these people and as a refresher to those who have already "glanced" at these rules, here they are:

INTRAMURAL RULES

1. A student may only represent the faculty in which he is registered.

2. Participation in intramural activities at McGill University is open to all students who have paid athletics fees to the Students' Society, except as outlined below.

3. No student may play on an Intramural team or compete in an Intramural meet while he is attending practice for an Intercollegiate team in that sport. Special permission to play Intramural while playing for an outside team may be authorized by the Students' Intramural Recreational Council upon written application through the secretary.

4. A student is not eligible for intramural competition in a sport if he has competed in one intercollegiate game or event in that sport during the same academic year.

5. Students who are barred from intercollegiate competition because of professionalism are barred from the same sport in the intramural programme.

6. To be eligible for playoffs, players must have participated in at least one of the league games of that team.

7. Any team shall forfeit any contest or event in which it used an ineligible player.

8. Any player unable to participate in the required number of games prior to playoffs due to illness or injury, may be qualified by the SIRC at a special meeting if the request for such a meeting is made 72 hours before the game, match or event.

9. Any questions regarding eligibility will be decided by the SIRC in accordance with the purpose of the rules and regulations if written notice is given thereto. (McGill Handbook, 1957-1958, pp. 121-2).

College Boxers Fight For Berths On Light's Squad

On Saturday night McGill's boxers slugged it out among themselves to decide who would represent McGill at the Intercollegiate Boxing meet to be held in Toronto on Feb. 14th and 15th.

In the featured match of the evening Tim Jones beat Dick Hinton. Dave Hurley won out over Chris Gilbert and Harry Weissman came out on top in a match with Pete Turpin. Carl Hutchinson won by default as the flu kept his opponent out of action.

ANNOUNCEMENTS MADE

Coach Bert Light also announced the following as members of the team that will represent the Red and White at Toronto Jim Rochemont 130 lb., Carl Hutchinson 135 lb., Pete Thompson 140 lb., Bill Briggs 145 lb., Harry Weissman 150 lb., Jerry Anderson 155 lb., Pierre Raymond 165 lb., Ozzie Downes 175 lb., and Tim Jones. Both Downes and Raymond are former Intercollegiate Champions.

Last year the squad brought the championship home with them from Toronto for the first time in three years. At that meet McGill ended up with 21 points while Toronto earned 13 and Queen's 11.
